Niamh Barry has gained design-world renown for her artful renderings of bronze and LED, and her latest, Muscularity, proves no exception. With a shape reminiscent of muscles expanding and contracting, the striking fixture is composed of four horizontally arranged rings, and within each, a half sphere holds a light. These LEDs emit a warm, nuanced glow, courtesy of their polished bronze surroundings. The unique piece is just now available at Maison Gerard in New York. $225,000, niamhbarry.com
