Sag Harbor-based Allison Babcock brought this contemporary Scandinavian beach home to fruition for clients who lead a clean and sustainable lifestyle.

SAG HARBOR-BASED INTERIOR DESIGNER ALLISON BABCOCK BROUGHT THIS CONTEMPORARY SCANDINAVIAN BEACH HOME TO FRUITION FOR CLIENTS WHO LEAD A CLEAN AND SUSTAINABLE LIFESTYLE.

Wishing to truly connect with nature, a pair of homeowners chose the natural beauty of Southampton to serve as the background to their custom-built, contemporary Scandinavian-inspired abode.

What followed was the need for an interior designer who understood their clean, eco-conscious lifestyle—that's where interior design maven Allison Babcock stepped in. Babcock's adaptive personality and eye for detail allowed her to craft a chic yet cozy space where midcentury and contemporary furnishings blend.

From the outside, the home reflects quintessential Scandinavian architecture as a result of integrating wood and natural materials, and a focus on natural light. But the inside is arguably where the magic unfolds. "The homeowners wanted a light, textural and cozy house that could be enjoyed year-round," Babcock shares. "We incorporated a variety of fabrics that bridge the desire to feel warm in the summer and cozy in the winter." Case in point: Classic natural tones, sleek finishes and fixtures, overlapping textures and large windows welcoming ample sunlight make each room in the abode flawlessly radiant. The relaxed living room in particular showcases a coalescence of textures, with an RH sectional, midcentury chairs flanking the gas fireplace and a Phillips Collection teak coffee table. Babcock designed a slated wall that lies in the living room, which separates the room from the floating staircase in order to keep the stairs concealed while simultaneously achieving an open layout.

“We kept the palette neutral and incorporated a combination of new pieces infused with vintage Danish furniture to give it a sense of warmth and patina,” Babcock explains. The primary bedroom is a prime example of the eclectic combination the designer speaks of. With a white custom bed platform by Allison Babcock and accompanying custom night tables by Chadhaus paired with minimalistic vintage Limburg pendant lights, the space radiates both comfort and quaint charm—a theme evident throughout the entire residence.

The peaceful, private backyard with cascading trees is the perfect place for the homeowners to bask in the outdoors. With the expertise of landscape architect Geoffrey Nimmer, the whimsical, viridescent yard space with a custom-designed sectional and coffee table by Allison Babcock offers a tranquil retreat to escape to.

“In the end, the home perfectly captured their personality and philosophy of clean, beautiful living,” Babcock says about the finished product. “Designing custom pieces with local artisans and craftspeople really anchored the home to its beautiful natural surroundings, which really was something we all wanted to achieve.” ■
