Renown Interior Designer, Phillip Thomas, Is Joining Skinner Auctioneers as the Inaugural Designer In Residence, Expanding Their Yearslong Creative Relationship

Skinner Auctioneers announces the appointment of renowned interior designer Phillip Thomas as the auction house's inaugural Designer in Residence, strengthening Skinner's long-held relationship with Thomas. Having collaborated with Thomas on a number of inspired design events and sales since 2018, Thomas' appointment demonstrates Skinner's innovative approach to auctions as an avenue for interior design.

“It is an honor to work with the prestigious auction house, Skinner,” said Thomas. “The broad range and depth of style, era and periods of works along with their commitment to high quality in the offerings within their sales has long been admired by my team and clients alike. I am thrilled to be named the first Designer in Residence!”

Kicking off his appointment, Thomas will be leading Skinner’s Living Luxe – Creating Timeless Interiors zoominar on April 7, 2022. Scheduled to coincide with Skinner’s spring Luxe Living: The Bostonians auction, the virtual event will feature Thomas’ signature “get the look” vision. Pulling from items featured in the auction, Thomas will offer elegant approaches to incorporating items at auction into one’s overall home aesthetic. The Luxe Living: The Bostonians sale will be hosted live, April 14, 2022 at 10:00 AM in Skinner’s Marlborough galleries.

In addition to bringing his signature design concept to buying at auction, Thomas’ approach positions antiques and vintage items as a sustainable way to outfit your home.

Much like the idea that the greenest home is the one already standing, Thomas enlivens antiques, uncovering new, sustainable afterlives in storied, vintage items. With supply chain issues still pervasive and affecting the interior design and architecture sector, Thomas incisively presents antiques as a creative, green workaround.

“Skinner is delighted to be expanding our collaborative work with Phillip Thomas. We look forward to witnessing the creative and innovative design perspective Phillip will no doubt offer as Designer in Residence,” said Katie Banser-Whittle, Skinner’s New York Regional Director.
